

Student's Desideratum

1. Never tire of learning. A good student can learn anywhere, any time. This is the secret of knowledge.
2. A good student is willing to sacrifice for his/her art and his/her instructor. Many students feel that their training is a commodity bought with monthly dues, and are unwilling to truly support their school and instructor. The academy can afford to lose this type of student.
3. Always be loyal and never criticize the instructor of TaeKwonDo, or his teaching methods.
4. If an instructor teaches a technique, practice and attempt to utilize it.
5. If a student adopts a technique and the instructor disapproves of the movement, the student must discard it immediately, or train somewhere else.
6. Never break a trust.
